URBAN NU

Becoming an Urban Nu franchisee could give you the Interior Design business you are looking for with the added support from a trusted and experienced brand. Urban Nu is one of the UK's leading design agencies with a particular focus and experience on commercial projects. As part of our growth strategy, we are now looking to grow the business via a franchise model and looking to partner individuals seeking to set up an interior design agency on their own. We have a model that works and are keen to share it with like-minded professionals. Whatever your experience and background, we can train and support you with all that you need to help you succeed in your dream venture. Our Interior Design franchise model is a first for the industry and we feel it is certainly needed to ensure that the profession has a greater penetration of the construction industry particularly on residential projects. There is a distinct lack of professionals in the residential sector which is almost recession proof yet we have an over supply of Interior Design professionals in the volatile commercial sector. We are looking to change this industry imbalance with our business model.
